

ENCAPSULATING THE ESSENCE OF SPACE

From monochromatic to maximalist settings—here's how an Indian luxury architect and interior designer Ekta Ahuja has carved out a niche for herself

Meet Ekta Ahuja; a global connoisseur of luxury and art, a visionary with a keen eye for architecture and interior design. She has more than a decade of experience in her field and has received accolades in the form of awards and features. Ahuja has also managed to stay true to her original design ethos while setting new trends, and has been inspiring others through her work. After founding the architecture and interior design firm Tejomaya Designs, she has established herself in some of India's major cities, including Mumbai, Bangalore, and Pune. In addition to breaking down barriers for women in architecture, she also forged new paths as a pioneer in the field of opulent interior design.

Ahuja describes her ever-evolving style as luxuriously modern and contemporary. Her creations are synonymous with the terms luxury and elegance. But what really sets her apart is her capacity for grasping and recapturing the vision of her clients. Three principles serve as the foundation of her design philosophy; the spirit of the client, the essence of the space, and the surroundings it exists within. "Interior design and well-being are two sides of the same coin. People want to be happy in the spaces I design, so every room you see has something to say about the people living in them. The monochromatic colours, textures, artwork...It's all layered to bring the modern luxury vibe with real comfort which is both visual and physical. This home design is more to do with the realities of the people it's designed for and yet brings in the maximalist look I desired," states Ahuja.

Ahuja weaves her magic by raising the bar for bespoke residences and luxurious living once more. She recently designed a contemporary Mumbai apartment, in which she truly achieved a monochromatic heaven for the living room and a Boho setting for the bedroom. The coherence of the design philosophy, which emphasises the use of shades of grey with accents of gold, completes the sense of spaciousness within her project. Ahuja truly is a remarkable architect who can make your dream of living in a luxury home come true.
